BRENDON CARLIN / URBAN SYSTEMS

Brendon Carlin is a Unit Master at the Architectural Association and partner and director at Urban Systems. Brendon received a masters degree in Architecture and Urbanism from the Architectural Association of London's Design Research Laboratory, and an undergraduate of Environmental Design in Architecture from the University of Colorado, Boulder. Brendon has been a Unit Master of Intermediate Unit 6 at the AA since 2011. He has also been an instructor for the post-graduate course 'Territorialism' with the Berlage Institute and the Architectural Association's 'Design+Make' masters program.

Through research, mentoring and practice, Brendon continues a development of computational generative latticeworks which elicit networking, collision and isolation, exploring the potentials of architecture and the city to initiate progressive shifts within society.
